STATE POLICE SEARCHING FOR ELUSIVE DRIVER

State police of the Gettysburg substation are searching for the driver of an automobile which they said early Sunday morning nearly wrecked a Maryland state police car near Emmitsburg and was abandoned on a dirt road near Zora. The car, according to police, is registered in the name of Harold Barnes, Fayetteville R. 2.

Pennsylvania state police, who came into the case because the car was abandoned and the driver escaped in this state, said that Maryland State Trooper Kenneth Bond, Emmitsburg, was cruising in a state police car near the west end of Emmitsburg when the Barnes automobile passed him at a high rate of speed.

Bond, police said, gave chase, and on the road between Emmitsburg and Zora was forced off the highway four times by the fleeing automobile. The Maryland state police car was not damaged and Bond continued the chase.

A short distance after crossing the state line into Pennsylvania the other automobile made a sharp turn onto a dirt road which climbs a considerable grade, police said, and was unable to "make" the hill. With

Democrats Pour Into Huge Chicago Hall For 1st Session

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago (AP)—Democrats streamed into this huge hall in Chicago's stockyards today, intent on picking before the week is out a man they think can bring them their sixth straight presidential victory.

This is an unusual Democratic National Convention. Not since Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated in 1932 have the Democrats had any real contest for top place on their ticket.

For three conventions it was Roosevelt, then four years ago it was Harry S. Truman.

Now there's an abundance of candidates, possibly even an overabundance: Vice President Alben Barkley, Averell Harriman and Sens. Estes Kefauver, Robert S. Kerr and Richard B. Russell.

The Democrats came to their 31st national convention pulling and hauling in uncertainty over platform and candidates.

As to the platform, it was "again, as it has been for years a North-South battle over 'civil rights'."

Reds Riot In Iran's Capital; At Least Three Are Killed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Premier Ahmed Qavam resigned tonight after violent hours-long rioting in Tehran and other cities subsided. He gave up, after two days, his attempt to form a government pledged to solving Iran's oil deadlock.

Before Qavam gave up, near-revolutionary violence flared, with Communists strengthening nationalist mobs. Government forces, with gun shots, tear gas and bayonets fought to keep control.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iran's capital was racked by near-revolutionary violence today as Communist-strengthened nationalist mobs rioted against new Premier Ahmed Qavam and the government struck back with bullets, tear gas and bayonets.

At least three persons and perhaps more were killed when government forces fired into a crowd of 2,000 trying to storm the Parliament Building.

Countless numbers of demonstrators were injured or arrested. Troops charged into surging crowds with fixed bayonets, leaving bloodied injured behind.

"Death to Qavam," the mobs shouted wildly, venting their fury at the new Premier's declaration that a settlement of Iran's long and crippling oil dispute with Britain would be a chief aim of his regime.

NORTH-SOUTH FAMILY FIGHT AT CHICAGO ON ICE FOR 24 HRS.

By JACK BELL

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, (P) — The Democratic National Convention slammed a 24-hour armistice on its old North-South family battle today as it met to choose its standard bearer in this fall's presidential election.

For the first time in years, the Democratic convention was wide open — there wasn't a candidate within shouting distance of the party's ticket-leading nomination.

A sectional split over civil rights and the seating of Texas and Mississippi delegations that want to be free to take a walk threatened to overshadow the momentous jockeying of a flock of presidential candidates. But it was put on ice until tomorrow.

Kefauver Has Plan

Out of the wide-ranging field of candidates there emerged at least one man with a convention strategy plan — Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Winner of most of the Democratic primaries and self-styled people's choice for the nomination, Kefauver appeared ready to shoot the political works in an effort to win the nomination by the fourth ballot.

If his self-propelled bandwagon stalls — as many in opposing camps were predicting it would — the top runners for No. 1 place on the ticket seemed to be 74-year-old Vice President Barkley and reluctant Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

Barkley Gains

Stevenson, who repeated last night that "I just don't want to be nominated for the presidency," still was a hot prospect for a draft movement if the convention deadlocks.

Despite a "this hurts me more than it does you" kick in the pants from organized labor leaders, Barkley continued to gather undercurrent strength.

George Harrison, AFL director of the CIO's Political Action Committee, said the unions can't support Barkley because of his age.

Welcomed By Stevenson

Welcoming the delegates to this hall where Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was chosen as the GOP presidential nominee 10 days ago, Stevenson said it doesn't matter so much who leads the Democrats this year.

"What counts now is not just what we are against but what we are for," he declared in a prepared address.

In an indirect reference to Republican charges of corruption in government, Stevenson declared:

"Where we have erred, let there be no denial; where we have wronged the public trust, let there be no excuses. Self-criticism is the secret weapon of democracy and candor and confession are good for the political soul."

Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, a Kefauver supporter, said in a prepared speech that Republicans from Eisenhower on down must share any blame that attaches to the Korean conflict.

Noting that the Republican platform criticized the withdrawal of American troops from Korea before fighting broke out there, Douglas said the Joint Chiefs of Staff reported in 1947 that Korea had little strategic value to the United States.

"Now, who do you suppose was chief of staff of the Army when this military advice was given?" he asked. "It was Dwight D. Eisenhower."

PA. DELEGATES SHOW ILLINOIS GOVERNOR AS EARLY FAVORITE

CHICAGO (P) — A big bloc of Pennsylvania voters sought today to tempt Illinois' Gov. Adlai Stevenson into the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The votes, 32 or 33 of them, were far from pledged to the governor, who has said he does not want the nomination. They were counted in a caucus roll call announced in advance as only an expression of sentiment which would not be binding on any delegate. Pennsylvania's 70 votes remain officially and actually uncommitted.

How They Stand Now

This was the lineup announced hurriedly by former U. S. Sen. Francis J. Myers, the delegation chairman, at the end of the roll call.

Stevenson 32; Sen. Estes Kefauver 14; President Truman 4; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Averell Harriman, one each; Sen. Robert Kerr and Justice William Douglas, ½ vote each; Truman or Stevenson, 2; Truman or Harriman, 1½; seven passed.

A recheck of the Associated Press tally sheet later showed: Stevenson 33, Kefauver 14½; Truman 7; Harriman and Eleanor Roosevelt one each; Truman or Stevenson 2½; Kerr or Douglas ½ each; eight passed, one delegate at large—CIO president Philip Murray—absent.

Word From Truman?

National Committeeman David L. Lawrence, who helped engineer the roll call, said the result was "a demonstration of genuine grassroots support" for Stevenson.

He wouldn't admit that it was designed to drag out a reluctant candidate, but did tell a reporter "it might have a tendency" to do just that.

And some Pennsylvanians wondered whether Lawrence and Myers who guided last night's caucus to a surprising showdown, might have some inkling of the long-awaited "word" on whom President Truman would prefer to see nominated.

Come At Routine Session

As veterans of both the "New Deal" and "Fair Deal" campaign days, and as leaders in firm control of the caucus machinery of a very large and completely uncommitted delegation both men certainly could be logical choices for such an assignment.

However, Lawrence said only that inasmuch as there has been no previous caucus of the delegation "we wanted to get a gauge on the picture" in advance of today's first convention session. And he assured the delegates there would be another caucus before voting time arrives later this week.

Myers started the ball rolling for the showdown at the end of what had been an absolutely routine meeting. He had been guiding the meeting following his nomination (by Lawrence) and unanimous election.

Leaders Gave Tipoff

The 160 delegates and alternates, sweltering in 90 degree heat, were squirming restlessly when Myers whipped out a sheet of paper and began reading from it.

There has been, he said "no expression of our own personal views as to who is the best man to carry the banner of democracy." It would be "helpful to all if we can get such an expression."

The delegates, wondering which way the wind was blowing, got the tipoff quickly in the first five votes. Lawrence, then national committee — woman Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, state chairman Maurice Spiller, the vice chairman, Mrs. Ruth Grigg Horting, and then Myers cast successive votes for Stevenson.

Votes For Eleanor

The score was 5-0 before the opposition came to bat, with Philadelphia's Mayor Joseph S. Clark and District Attorney Richardson Dilworth announcing support for Kefauver.

At the end of the at-large list, half of the 20 delegates were lined up for Stevenson. The district lists started out just about the same, with four Stevenson backers, including Philadelphia City Chairman James A. Finnegan, in the first five before County Commissioner Maurice Oser, Philadelphia, sprang a surprise of his own by announcing support for Mrs. Roosevelt, widow of the late president.

There was a little waiting, and some debating, before Myers announced the result of the count. The caucus ended then and there. Lawrence said later no time has been set for another.

Backing Kefauver

Before the official caucus began, there had been a "rump" caucus of pro-Kefauver delegates, headed by State Sen. Samuel G. Neff of Ellwood City.

Neff, said 14 delegates discussed ways and means of getting votes for Kefauver from the 27 delegates pledged to support the popular choice in the primary last April. He has talked about making a fight for them on the convention floor.

Among the group Clark and Dilworth and two veteran Philadelphia Democratic leaders, banker Albert M. Greenfield and contractor Matthew H. McCloskey Jr., all of whom plunked for Kefauver at the caucus.

ONE KILLED, 5 HURT IN CRASH

DOWNINGTOWN, Pa. (P) — T. Howell Le Boutillier, 50, of Philadelphia, was killed and five others were injured last night in a two-car collision on the rain-swept Pennsylvania Turnpike near the Downingtown Interchange three miles north of here.

Turnpike patrolman John Scott said Le Boutillier lost control of his automobile while attempting to pass another car operated by Samuel Black, of Springfield, Delaware County. Scott said the Le Boutillier vehicle hit the concrete divider between east and westbound lanes and then veered back onto the path of Black's machine. Both cars were traveling east when the accident occurred.

Has Broken Jaw
Black was taken to Chester County Hospital, West Chester, with a fractured jaw. His wife, Alice, is in critical condition with a fracture skull. His son, Samuel, five, is in serious condition with neck injuries. A seven-year-old daughter, Ruth, suffered fractures of both legs and an 18-month-old daughter, Virginia, sustained a fracture of the right leg.

Le Boutillier was the son of the late Dr. Theodore Le Boutillier, former chief of staff of the Children's Department at Philadelphia General Hospital and widely known specialist in children's diseases.

Le Boutillier is survived by his widow, the former Sylvia Aronson, three sons, Stephen, Anthony, and Adrian, and a sister, Mrs. John Naylor, all of Philadelphia.

A graduate of Penn State, he was an industrial engineer in the Philadelphia firm of Day and Zimmerman, Inc.

SENATORS NEAR SECOND PLACE; RED SOX GAIN

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

Four consecutive victories by one run and 21 one-run triumphs for the season.

That is the principal reason why Washington's scrappy Senators are in third place today.

The Nats added their fourth straight one-run victory yesterday as they swept a doubleheader from the St. Louis Browns, 7-6 and 6-3, to move into third place, a half game in front of Cleveland and a half game behind the Boston Red Sox. The double triumph stretched their winning streak to five and left them that many lengths away from the pace - setting New York Yankees.

Chicox Beat Yankees

The Red Sox picked up a full game on the Yankees, vanquishing the Indians, 8-7, in 12 innings while the fifth-place Chicago White Sox were upsetting the world champions, 5-4. Philadelphia's Athletics took the opener of a doubleheader from Detroit, 8-7, and played a 3-3 tie in the second game, halted by Pennsylvania's 7 p. m. curfew at the end of the ninth inning.

Brooklyn's runaway Dodgers maintained their 7½-game buge in the National League, taking Pittsburgh into camp for the 13th straight time, 8-5. The runner-up New York Giants whipped the Chicago Cubs, 9-7, and the third-place St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Boston Braves, 8-4.

Philadelphia and Cincinnati divided a doubleheader, the Phillies bounding back with a 4-3 win after the Reds had taken the opener, 6-5 in 10 innings.

Astroth Single Wins

Washington gave Connie Marrero a 7-1 lead in the first game but the Cuban righthander was tagged for five runs in the eighth before Joe Haynes quelled the Brownie uprising.

Bob Porterfield had a 6-0 lead in the second game but weakened in the late innings and gave way to Sandy Consuegra.

A single by catcher Joe Astroth in the ninth scored Billy Hitchcock with the run that gave the A's their first game win over the Tigers. The second game was marred by stalling on the A's part after the Tigers had taken a lead in the 10th. Philadelphia used three pitchers to three batters in that inning.

Home runs by George Shuba, Jackie Robinson and Andy Pafko helped the Dodgers make it 13 out of 13 against the Pirates.

Three hits each by Bobby Thomson and Hank Thompson enabled Larry Jansen to pick up his 10th triumph as the Giants evened the two-game series with the Cubs. Del Ennis smacked two doubles and a home run as Robin Roberts won his 14th game for the Phillies after an error by Connie Ryan had set up Cincinnati's game-winning run in the 10th of the opener.

Interstate

By The Associated Press

The Wilmington Blue Rocks are on a toboggan ride that may eliminate the 1951 playoff champs from the current title chase of the Class B Interstate baseball league.

The Blue Rocks, out of first place during the early season, dropped their ninth game in a row yesterday, a 3-2 decision to the up and coming York White Roses.

Yesterday's best game was last-place Harrisburg's 1-0 edging of Lancaster on the two-hit pitching of Al Wilmore in his first start of the season. In other games Allentown blasted seventh-place Salisbury, 9-4, and Hagerstown made it two in a row over Salisbury, 4-1.

Eastern League

By The Associated Press

Centerfielder Joe Fuller of the Reading Indians is a ball and chain on the Albany Senators' bid to run away with the Eastern League flag.

Fuller drove in five of the Indians' 20 runs yesterday, as Reading shattered Albany's eight-game winning streak, 10-0 and 10-3. The double win brought the second-place Indians to within 5½ games of the lead.

The Indians moved half a game away from the Schenectady Blue Jays, when the second game of Schenectady's scheduled doubleheader at Elmira was rained out.

The Blue Jays had moved into third place by winning the first game, 3-1, while the Binghamton Triplets lost a double bill, 8-5 and 3-2, to the cellar-dwelling Tigers at Williamsport.

The Scranton Miners split with the Hartford Chiefs at Hartford. Scranton won the opener, 8-4, and the Chiefs countered in the second game, 5-3.

YANK JUMPERS AND WEIGHTMAN STARRING TODAY

HELSENKI (AP)—America's jumpers and weight throwers continued to dominate the major events in the 15th Olympic Games today as the second day's track and field events began.

The United States, which placed one-two in the high jump yesterday, sent three men into the final round of the shot put without effort and also qualified all its three entries for the broad jump final.

Parry O'Brien of Southern California, world record holder Jim Puchs of New York and Darrow Hooper of Ft. Worth, Tex., surpassed the required distance of 47 feet 20.81 inches in the shot put.

All Above 24 Feet

Broad jumpers Meredith Gourdine of Cornell, Jerome Bille of the U. S. Army and George Brown of the University of California at Los Angeles all surpassed 24 feet on their qualifying jumps. A leap of 23 feet, 7.47 inches was required.

The pole vault, third qualifying event on this morning's program, also was expected to be easy for the Americans.

As a result of yesterday's trials, the United States also had three qualifiers in the semifinals of the 100-meter dash and 400-meter hurdles, also scheduled for later today.

Top Four Records

Four Olympic records were bettered yesterday—three in final events and another in a preliminary.

Charles Moore, the former Cornell star from Ithaca, N. Y., glided over the 400-meter hurdles in :50.8 yesterday, three-tenths of a second better than the previous mark. He was looking over his shoulder at the finish.

Today he tackles this treacherous race in the semifinals and almost assuredly in the finals. He can beat his yesterday's time. He may well break the world record of :50.6 held by Glenn Hardin of the United States since 1934.

Other Mark Smashers

The other record smashers yesterday were:
1. Walt Davis, a Texas cowboy, who cleared 6 feet, 8.32 inches 2.04 meters in the high jump.
2. Nina Romaschkova, a new name among the powerful Russian women athletes, who hurled the discus 168 feet, 8.46 inches 51.42 meters.
3. Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia, who has his sights set on winning the 5,000 meters, 10,000 meters and the marathon. He took the 10,000 yesterday, lowering his own 1948 mark from 29:59.6 to 29:17.0.

Some Consonants Worry Secretaries

NEW YORK (AP)—If you would like to be considered an ideal boss by your secretary, you should avoid slurring the spirants and fricative consonants when dictating.

Alexander L. Sheff, director of the Speedwriting Institute, says such consonants are apt to be in words which give secretaries the most trouble during dictation. These consonants are characterized by a continuous sound such as "th," "l," "s" or "v."

Such words as "freeze," "loath," "breath," "clothes" and "disburse" are likely to be confusing to secretaries.

The race for first place in the South Penn Baseball League is now deadlocked as a result of games played Sunday. Only one more Sunday of regularly-listed games is scheduled although there are six postponements to be made up. However, none of the postponements involve Bonneauville and Brushtown, now tied for first place.

Bonneauville was pulled down into a tie for first place when it absorbed an 11-5 defeat at Hanover. Brushtown moved up for the deadlock with a 7-2 win at Hunterstown. Bendersville spotted Greenmount a 6-0 lead at the end of six frames but put on a strong finish and finally tallied a run in the 10th inning for a 7-6 win at Bendersville.

Failure of the umpires to appear forced postponement of the Granite-Barlow game at Barlow. The teams then staged a practice game with Barlow winning 19-0 in five innings. Granite had but eight players in uniform.

Vic Seixas Winner In Merion Finals

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP)—America's No. 1 amateur tennis player, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, kept him hold on his Pennsylvania and Eastern States court crown by defeating Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., 7-6, 6-4, in their final match at Merion Cricket club yesterday.

In a marathon doubles final, Clark teamed with Bob Perry of Los Angeles to subdue Seixas and Bill Vogt, also of Philadelphia, 20-22, 13-11, 6-0, 6-4. The match consumed 85 games and three hours and 15 minutes.

Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly of San Diego, Calif., winner of the women's title Saturday, joined with Perry in the mixed doubles to take a 6-3, 6-3 match from Seixas and Mrs. Bunny Harshaw Vosters, Philadelphia women's star who bowed to Miss Connolly in the women's singles.

Test pilot Bill Bridgeman smiled happily at his home in Los Angeles July 16 after he was informed that he had officially broken the speed and altitude records in the Navy D-558-2. He is credited with flying the rocket ship to an altitude record of 79,494 feet on August 7, 1951, and a new speed record of 1,238 miles an hour on August 15, 1951.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Battle of Lundy's Lane: The Whigs of Buffalo are making great preparations for a grand gathering at Niagara Falls, on the 27th of this month. The assemblage will organize near the battlefield of Niagara, and all the friends of the "Here of Lundy's Lane" throughout the Union are invited to be present. It was on the 25th of July that Scott fought the memorable battle. The 25th, however, occurring on the Sabbath, the nearest convenient time has been fixed upon. The concourse of persons to be collected at the time designated, will probably be the largest assemblage ever convened together in the United States. Then rally, Whigs, for the plains of Niagara.

Mountain View Springs: The subscriber has been induced to open an Establishment for accommodation of Invalids and also for persons who wish to leave the cities and town for a short period during the warm and unhealthy season of the year, for a healthy and comfortable place in the country. It is situated eight miles north of Gettysburg on the State Road, leading from Gettysburg to Newville, halfway between Middletown and Bendersville. . . . There are plunge and shower baths; also many places of resort and amusement along the romantic streams, ravines, pine woods, &c.

The subscriber will also accommodate parties from the country and adjacent towns.

Persons boarding for a week or two will have the use of the Baths gratis. Any person leaving his name with the subscriber and paying one dollar in advance, will have the privilege of the Baths for the season. Persons who have not subscribed will be required to pay 64 cents for each bathing.

Persons coming to Gettysburg in a public conveyance, can have immediate conveyance to the Springs by applying to Mr. John L. Tate, and also have ready conveyance back to Gettysburg.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Ocean Grove, some eight or ten miles below Long Branch, N. J., is becoming a favorite summer resort for persons desiring sea-bathing, without the dissipation connected with fashionable watering places.

Misses Maggie McClean and Lillie McClean, of this place, are among the visitors at Ocean Grove.

Local Items: The Gypsies are on the move. Several small bands have passed through this place during the last week or two.

Services will be held on Sabbath at Chamberlain's and Fairfield by John S. Diehl, the pastor being absent.

On Saturday the East Berlin and Big Mount Band, accompanied by a party of excursionists, visited Gettysburg.

On Saturday morning about forty-five persons left this place to join the excursion to Annapolis. They returned at 10 p.m., having had a pleasant trip.

More Thieving: On Tuesday night the residence of Mr. Charles B. Polley, Chambersburg street, was entered and a navy-blue vest, shawl, over-skirt and two ties carried off. The thief effected an entrance by cutting out a pane of glass from a window and then removing a bolt which fastened the sash.

The managers of the Shippensburg State Normal School have a queer way of cyphering up the number of pupils. They announce that "the whole attendance last year was upwards of five hundred." The catalogue gives the names and residences of about one-third that number. As there were three terms probably the 500 is reached by multiplying the actual number of pupils by three. There is a good deal of humbug about these Normal Schools.

Our citizens are under obligations to Mr. Hugh D. Scott, telegraph operator at this place, for promptly furnishing telegrams, posting them

MY HIDE-AWAY

For another few weeks of the summertime I am privileged to be at my small island home — "Weskawanaak," on Grand Lake, in unspoiled Nova Scotia. Here is my comfortable lodge and log dining cabin, nestled among the pines. Here it is that I write and read and find peace among the fragrant varieties of pines that continually bend their branches in welcomed rhythm.

Here is quiet. Walking over the mossy paths you are reminded of the years of falling pine needles that form a cushion of silence as you stroll about. And there are wild flowers always in bloom while I am here. I know the names of them all and pass a salute as I come upon them. Many a towering hemlock have I interviewed, and many a tiny warbler has sent dainty notes of song to me as I have watched each in its happy world.

No matter what the news, whether tragic or not, these songsters on "Weskawanaak" only know one life—the life of work, the raising of a family, and bursting their joy in song. They know nothing of war. I sit on the sunny verandah and study the habits of these tiny birds with my field glasses. How much we can learn from them! How frugal, how thrifty each!

Hazel Woodliffe, who for so many years has served me on my hide-away, is with me this year, and her kindly spirit and thoughtfulness are a joy to one trying to extract all the beauty and wonder in so small and enchanted a place as this where I now live and write and relax, and try to gather up for better improvement some of the important values of life.

Gentle breezes sweep my face as I work at the corner in my lodge. A tapestry of light and shadow meets my view during the day, and at night I watch the stars dance upon the water of the lagoon. When the moon is full, as it soon will be, it is like a traveling globe of gold and I watch it rise in the East and later settle in the West, and the sky is a canopy of stars — God's eyes looking down! In the words of John Burroughs, "I come here often to find myself, it is so easy to get lost in the world."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "That One Friend."

Just Folks

THE IMPORTANT TASK
My father used to tell me:
"When you're given a task to do

You may think it unimportant, but it means a lot to you. It's a mission you've been given, and perform it well you must, Or the boss will have discovered you're a boy he cannot trust.

"As you build your reputation, every duty is a test. You will lose men's good opinion if you fail to do your best. It's your worth that you are showing and you prove it by your work. And you'll never get the greater if the lesser task you shirk.

"I want you to remember, for it's gospel that I say: You're the living advertisement of yourself from day to day. It is you that you are building; and, it's true, beyond a doubt, If to trust you are unfaithful others quickly find it out."

The Great Strike: The past week has been one of intense excitement, somewhat akin to that which preceded the breaking out of the rebellion, by reason of the great strike among railroad employees. It began on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad by the trainmen resisting a reduction of wages and the first difficulty occurred at Martinsburg, West Virginia. A number of firemen and engineers left their trains at Martinsburg, and when others offered to take their place at the reduced wages, the strikers wouldn't allow them to do so, dragging men from the engines, and giving out that no trains should pass Martinsburg until the company restored the old schedule of wages and complied with the demands of the rioters.

In this emergency Gov. Matthews was appealed to, who ordered out several companies of State militia. These also neither sympathized with the mob or played the part of cowards. . . . The mob grew more defiant and increased in numbers.

Gov. Matthews next called on President Hayes for military aid, who ordered several companies of U. S. troops from Washington and Fort McHenry. On the appearance of these troops at Martinsburg, the strikers dispersed and trains began to move. Meanwhile the strike was extending along the line of the road east and west. . . .

Gov. Hartranft Heard From: Gov. Hartranft had reached Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, on Friday en route for San Francisco, when advised of the troubles at Pittsburgh. He immediately telegraphed to General Latta to call out the military force of the State, if necessary to quell the riots, and started for home on a return train.

KINDERGARTEN KIDS COUNT

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Are kindergarten children one-half a pupil each or one-quarter? Minnesota Education Commissioner Dean M. Schweickhard asked this question of state Attorney General Burnquist when it came to determining a basis for computing tax levies. The attorney general ruled "each kindergarten pupil attending half-day sessions throughout the school year constitutes one-half pupil unit."

Italy Has Become Europe Movie Center

ROME (AP)—Italy has become the movie capital of Europe. More pictures are made in Italy than in any other European country, the Italian National Association of Motion Pictures and Allied Industry reported. Rome began to take the Italian production spotlight in 1945, when 25 of the 32 films made in Italy were turned out here. Last year "Hollywood on the Tiber" turned out all but 10 of the 112 motion pictures produced in Italy. Moreover, during the past six years U. S. firms produced 22 films in Rome, the English 10 and other countries five.

Littlestown SPORTSMEN'S OUTING HELD

Approximately 150 members of the Littlestown Fish and Game Association, Inc., and their families attended the second annual outing and picnic held on the grounds at the Fish and Game farm on Sunday. A basket lunch was enjoyed in the grove and a large number of those at the outing spent their time fishing in the pond. There were games for the children with prizes for the winners. The picnic committee was composed of Charles W. Weikert, Harry O. Harner and W. E. Stites.

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Luke's Union Church, near White Hall, held its July meeting on Friday evening at the church. The program presented was as follows: Group singing of "God the Father"; Scripture reading and prayer offered by Mrs. Charles Ginter, leader for the evening; piano solo played by Gloria Ginter; playette entitled "In Every Quiet Hour" presented by Mrs. Charles Ginter, Gloria Ginter, Jean Spangler and Wilbur Spangler; vocal solo, "Mocking Bird Hill," Jean Spangler, and organ solo, "Beautiful Dreamer," Eileen Hartlaub. A brief business session was held. It was decided to hold the next meeting on Friday, August 15, at the home of Mrs. Rodney Harner, near town. The leader for the topic discussion will be Mrs. Oscar Am-spacher.

John N. Sell, Reynold A. Ridinger, Lewis E. Bair and Gary L. Mummert

served as ushers for the Sunday morning worship service in Christ Reformed Church yesterday. A message was brought by the pastor, the Rev. G. Howard Koons. The Sunday bulletin was given by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Utter and family. The altar flowers were collected from the church flower gardens. The members of the congregation were reminded that a bazaar table will be conducted in connection with the annual Sunday School picnic on Saturday, August 2, in the church grove. Any crocheted work, other sewing items, or home canned products and jellies will be acceptable. The contribution may be made to a member of the committee composed of Mrs. Erwin A. Rebert, Mrs. Emma K. Garrett or Mrs. Delphia J. Sterner. The committee in charge of the menu advertising bulletin being arranged in connection with the picnic is preparing to bring the project to a close. Members and friends who may desire to have their names appear on this bulletin may do so by making a contribution of $2 to any member of the committee. The proceeds of this project will be used for the church building fund.

Union Service Held
The Rev. Fr. Edward J. Shanahan announced at the Sunday morning masses in St. Aloysius Catholic Church that for the masses on Sunday, July 27, 7:30 and 9:30 a.m., that a priest representing the Mississippi Missions will be present to talk with the parishioners concerning the missions. The members of the congregation will be given an opportunity to make their annual contributions to mission work.

"Faith" was the theme of the sermon delivered by the Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, at the outdoor Union Vesper service held on Sunday evening in the pavilion at Crouse's

Mosque Becomes Private Hospital

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — As part of the reform policy of Premier General Fawzi Selo, the Syrian government recently abolished the title of Sheikh of the Dancing Dervishes, deprived him of control of the sect's properties and turned their mosque into a public hospital.

The sheikh headed the remnants—about 60 members in Damascus and Aleppo—of the Mawlawi sect of dervishes (religious fraternities) which was powerful in Turkey before its abolition by Kamal Ataturk, who confiscated its properties.

Among the Mawlawis, the zikr, main devotional exercise, consists of a monotonous chant accompanied by a slow, whirling movement with eyes closed and arms extended. The ceremony continues until the participants fall into a cataleptic state.

Sculptress Does "Impossible" Feat

VISALIA, Calif. (AP)—Experts told Mrs. Hester Sibley it was impossible to hand-sculpture porcelain figures, but they were a little late with their advice—she had already made a hobby of it.

Porcelain is a little harder to work with than ceramic clay, said Mrs. Sibley, because it dries out faster and requires a higher temperature for baking. But she found nothing impossible about hand-sculpturing her beautiful figurines.

Her pieces of porcelain retain sharper detail than ceramics and also have a pleasing translucent appearance.

Retired Railroad Is Raising Animals

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Retired railroad George Russell, 79, has gone into the animal business.

On his acre of land, Russell raises turtles, pheasants, squirrels, peacocks and even a raccoon. Many of the animals were given to the former railroad man by friends.

The raccoon, Tootsie, came to the Russell backyard after a friend's wife said she couldn't live in the same apartment with it.

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP)—The potato shortage made Ben Buchholz worry about the many vacant spaces in his potato patch. He dug down to see why his seed had not sent up plants. He found many potatoes as large as hen eggs. Now he's wondering if a new topless potato has been developed by a quirk of nature.

LIGHTNING BLACKS OUT MOVIE

25th ANNIVERSARY

How's Business? GREAT—with prices like these

1952 BUICK LOCAL DELIVERED PRICES

SPECIAL 3-Door 6-Passenger Sedan MODEL 48D (Illustrated)	$2,258.13
SUPER 4-Door 6-Passenger Biviere Sedan MODEL 32	$2,626.66
ROADMASTER 3-Door 6-Passenger Biviere MODEL 76R	$3,363.36

Optional equipment, accessories, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities due to shipping charges. All prices subject to change without notice.

Power Steering now available on Super as well as Roadmaster—optional at extra cost.

THIS is—to coin a phrase—a "shopper's market."

Folks are taking a keen look at what they get for what they pay—and they're taking a double look at price tags.

That's the kind of market where Buick really shines.

Do you know why?

Buick prices are down within easy reach of the folks who buy what's known as "the low-priced three."

Fact is—a big chunk of Buick sales comes from the folks who trade in one of this low-priced trio.

For very few extra dollars, they're getting a lot more automobile.

They're getting more power—and the thrill that goes with it.

They're getting "big-car" comfort. They're getting a ride that cost a million dollars and more to develop.

They like the room, the fabrics, the extra appointments they find in the smart-stepping beauty pictured here. And they like Dynaflo V Drive.*

They like the way it handles. They like the way it's engineered. They like the belt they get out of touching off the power of its Fireball 8 Engine—and they like the miles they get from a gallon of fuel.

So Buick sales are booming. Not just the SPECIAL—but also the SUPER and ROADMASTER. Folks find that each one is the buy in its field.

When we tell you that business is great, we can back up that statement with figures. More people are buying Buicks than any other car at their price or above.

Why don't you come in and see for yourself what's behind this popularity?

If you can afford a new car, you can be the proud owner of a Buick.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

CIO WAGE POLICY COMMITTEE IN SESSION TODAY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Philip Murray summoned his 170-man Wage Policy Committee to this steel capital today for a possibly momentous session on the big question: "What's next in the 50-day-old crippling steel strike?"

But it is doubtful if the committee—composed of CIO United Steelworkers leaders—will do anything to end the walkout which has idled 600,000 steelworkers and 900,000 in allied and steel-using industries.

If nothing comes from Murray's sloshed session with his Wage Policy Committee today, the government may decide to move ahead with a plan to seize a small number of plants under the 1948 Selective Service Act.

The act permits seizure under certain emergency conditions. It would apply to mills producing steel for such defense items as bullets, tanks, etc. Workers in affected plants presumably would be barred from striking against the government as temporary operators of the mills.

Murray and industry representatives met again Sunday under government prodding. But a four-hour meeting ended with this statement from the industry:

"The chief stumbling block . . . continues to be the question of compulsory unionism. There are no further meetings scheduled."

Said Murray:

"There isn't much that we have to say except that we have met. The issues have not as yet been resolved."

Estimate Cost Of World War III

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A Navy economics expert estimates it would cost the United States almost four trillion dollars to fight an all-out third World War.

Comdr. John W. Seager of the Navy Supply Corps, who is a member of the Industrial College in Washington, said in a recent interview here that each major war the United States has fought has cost roughly 10 times more than the previous one. World War II cost 383 billion dollars, Seager says.

MAY SOON OPEN RTE. 16 SECTION BEYOND ZORA

With good weather, opening of road Route 16 from Fountaintdale to Zora should be possible near the first of September, although no promises are being made either by Hempt, Bros., the contracting firm or the State Highway Department.

In fact the latter never makes promises about the opening of new construction, and the contracting firm is a bit hesitant with predictions. "All depends on the weather," it is said.

Laying of the top surface has started along a part of the road. While this is being accomplished, the roadway is being cleared, also the shoulders of surplus accumulations. This means the end of the construction activities which have gone on for months is being neared.

No Special Ceremonies

After the top surface is laid it is customary with road builders to allow the road to settle awhile and the top surface to form before traffic is permitted over it. At the present time the road is barricaded to all except workers.

No formal plans for a road opening have been considered, it was explained Friday by President James W. McKown of the Waynesboro Motor Club. People will be glad enough to use the road either with or without a formal opening, it was stated, so there exists the possibility that no special program of dedication will be arranged.

To Open Sunshine Trail

The route has been slightly altered from the old road, running generally a little south of the thoroughfare which saw service for many years. Curves have been reduced.

It is expected that with the opening of this part of Route 16, the Sunshine Trail also will be thrown open to general travel. It has been barricaded nearly two years because of the construction activities of the U. S. government at Raven Rock.

Keep faded flowers picked off if you want annual flowers to bloom all summer. Plants which stop flowering should be cut back heavily to encourage new growth which will bear another crop of flowers.

Chlordane, which is the best ant killer, and destroys chiggers, grass hoppers, and most insects that crawl on the soil and live in it, has been proved to prevent the germination of crab grass seed.

Chemical soil conditioners which coarsen the texture of clay soil, making it friable, are not fertilizers, and do not add humus to the soil. Your usual plant food and humus applications should be used with them.

Flowers cut in the late afternoon or early morning with a sharp knife, and plunged at once into water, will keep well.

Weekly Farm And Garden Section

Sow Pansies And Violas For Next Spring's Bloom

Pansies and violas are both perennials, with a common ancestry. Violas, which are usually of solid coloring, are longer lived than the pansies, which have "faces." Both are grown most easily from seed sown in late summer, and carried over the winter to bloom in early spring.

The plants will hold their green leaves all winter and bloom in a cold frame as soon as the earliest spring flowers are out. If grown in the shade, with faded flowers removed promptly, they will bloom all summer. But pansies seldom live a second winter and the violas are not much longer lived.

It is easy, however, to start a flat or two of these lovely flowers each year. Sow the seed by August 15 in soil prepared by mixing a third sharp sand, a third peat moss, and a third sifted top soil. Cover the surface with a half-inch layer of sphagnum moss, and broadcast the seed in this, with a little moss to cover them. Keep moist until the seeds germinate.

The moss will prevent damping-off, a fungus-disease which is dangerous in hot weather. Let the plants grow out in the open until fall. Then if you have a cold frame put the flat in it and cover with leaves for the winter.

Lacking a cold frame, set the flat in a protected corner, and cover. It is better to transplant the seedlings, setting them seven to eight inches apart in additional flats, but if you sowed thinly, this can be skipped and the plants left to winter in the original flat.

When the garden soil has been prepared in the spring, move the plants to a portion of the border which is on the shady side of a building. They may not grow as fast as first as plants in full sun, but they will soon catch up, and the rest of the summer they will surprise you.

In hot weather, the flowers will not grow to giant size, and the plants will become "leggy," with long stems. If cut back severely, and given a dose of plant food, new growth and more abundant flowers will result. Aside from the novelty of pansies in the summer, attractive color effects may be obtained by planting named varieties of pansies.

Violas may be grown the same way. Their flowers grow almost as large as the pansies in the summer, and are more numerous. Dark blue, yellow and white flowers will make a bed or border which will cool you off in the hottest weather.

MOLE FACTS WORTH KNOWING

The editor has completed some extensive experiments in control of ground moles which are certainly of practical interest to numerous readers — urban gardeners as well as rural farmers. The most important facts, along with general suggestions for solving the mole problem, are here passed along.

Last spring a farmer friend complained that moles had all but ruined his 1951 garden and had burrowed throughout his spacious lawn so generally that much of the grass died from aeration. We considered this an excellent opportunity to try out our recommended trapping advice plus the poisoning methods we have advised for the last two years but which we had accepted on the strength of several South Carolina, North Carolina, and Georgia gardeners and farmers without personal tests with moles under more northerly conditions.

Traps were set as soon as the first moles appeared last May, with only a capture now and then. The ravages continued. Several of the invaders were dug out by hand but apparently there were too many of the pests to warrant attempts of extermination by this certain but slow and laborious method. At last we turned to poisoning. One application of strychnine - soaked corn killed every mole and during the past two weeks not a single new entry has been observed.

The method is simple. Strychnine is dissolved in water at the rate of 40 grains in enough water to cover slightly less than one pint of shelled corn. Of course, where smaller quantities of bait are needed the local drugist will gladly determine the proper quantity of strychnine if the inquirer cannot figure it out. Slightly more strychnine than here advised will do no harm in so far as the bait's attractiveness to moles is concerned.

The corn should be soaked in this solution until the grains are soft, usually 4 to 7 days for old corn.

A pointed stick is formed to fit the inside of the neck of a medium small funnel so the stick protrudes just below the neck end. With the stick in place the funnel neck is pushed gently into an active mole burrow, the stick is removed, and one grain of the strychnine - soaked corn is dropped in. The hole should be covered carefully after the funnel is removed. It is advisable to introduce corn about every 3 to 8 feet in recently formed burrows.

Emphasis, it will be observed, is placed on care in avoiding severe disturbance of the burrow. This is necessary because moles often abandon a burrow that has been seriously disturbed. This often nullifies efforts to control moles by trapping.

Where mole ravages are limited, but one or a few culprits are usually present. In these conditions digging them out may prove to be the most practical method of combat. Even a beginner or novice soon learns how to wait quietly beside an active burrow until the mole comes along and begins to heave up a short section of the ridge that has been tramped down. Then the heel or a spade should be suddenly and quietly set down behind the mole to prevent its hurried retreat and the invader can be easily dug out with a stout hoe or mattock.

Send the editor a stamped, adressed envelope for a free copy of our mole control instructions.

WHAT IS A "GARDEN SPRAY?"

Several times within the last two or three weeks the editor has received from readers inquiries which in slightly varying forms asked in substance the question — "Please advise me what is a good garden spray to kill insects and control diseases."

Through the years we have frequently tried to acquaint our readers with the simple facts about plant insects and diseases and particularly about means and methods of prevention and control. Usually we follow the principle in answering such questions as that stated above by translating it into medical terms or terms of human ailments. This question is as fully without basis as if a person wrote the family physician and asked: "Dear Doctor, send me a family medicine," without in any manner describing who was ill, whether it was a child or an elderly person, whether it was a broken leg or the measles, whether it was head lice or tuberculosis.

Or in other words, what we are trying to illustrate here is this simple but vital truth — There are scores of different kinds of vegetable and small fruit crops. There are several dozen outstanding diseases which are likely to affect these plants. Rarely do two different kinds of crops suffer from the same disease. There are at least 50 and perhaps more common insect enemies likely to attack these same crops. Many of these pests attack only one particular crop, some three or four.

Further and even more important, some of these diseases are bacterial in origin and can be prevented only by rotation to clean soils each year. Others are seed-borne and can be prevented solely by disinfection of seed before planting. Still others are carried by insects, hence can be prevented only by controlling the carrier. Some are caused by tiny organisms called fungi. These are known as fungous diseases. They must be met by sanitation or by applying a suitable fungicide at the proper time. In some cases dusting sulphur is the recommended fungicide, in others it may be Bordeaux mixture or one of the many organic copper dusts or sprays.

Likewise there are perhaps thirty or more insecticides — sprays or dusts to kill or repel destructive insects. In one case the insecticide that kills a certain kind of insect will not in any degree kill another kind of insect. Some insects are killed by an insecticide it swallows on the food it eats, another is killed only by an insecticide that causes death by contact with the insect's body. An insecticide that may be used safely on one kind of plant will damage another kind of plant.

A fungicide will not kill an insect. An insecticide will not control or prevent a fungous disease. Neither will it in any way curb

SEVEN KILLED IN CROSSING CRASH

CENTRAL ISLIP, N. Y. (AP)—Seven persons, all relatives, were killed when the auto in which they were riding was struck by a Long Island Railroad train at a grade crossing near here yesterday.

The crash hurled three persons from the auto, which the diesel-powered train dragged almost 1,000 feet along the track.

The four others were burned to a crisp in the rear of the car, as it burst into flames and the gasoline tank exploded. Three firemen were burned fighting the flames. A section of track was ripped up.

Bound To Beach
The victims, clad in bathing suits, either were bound for Lake Ronkonkoma, Long Island, or returning home from swimming there.

Firemen worked for two hours with acetylene torches to extricate the four bodies from the car.

The accident occurred on the main line of the railroad, running between Jamaica and Greenport, which is single-track at the point. The crossing is not protected by gates or a watchman, but has a stop sign.

The dead were identified by police as: Paul Lamber, 47, the driver and a wholesale butcher, of Islip Terrace; Lamber's wife, Eileen, 37; Mrs. Frances Hunter, 44, of St. Albans, Queens, a practical nurse at Meadowbrook Hospital, East Meadow, N. Y.; Mrs. Catherine Dempsey, 44, of Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. Margaret Harris, 39, of Cohasset, Mass.; Mrs. Harris' daughter, Sheila, 12; Harold E. O'Donnell, 9, who lived at the same address as Mrs. Hunter, his aunt.

Ike Mum About His "Favorite Democrat"

DENVER (AP)—If Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has a favorite candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination—someone that he as the Republican nominee would prefer to run against—he is keeping mum about it.

He was ducking questions on that matter today as the Democrats opened their national convention in Chicago to pick his opponent in the November election.
